About

As a developer with a passion for great UI/UX, I love creating intuitive and visually appealing experiences. I thrive in collaborative environments, where I enjoy supporting my team and believe in the value of sharing knowledge. I'm always open to feedback and excited about working on different products.

Professional experience

At my last company, I contributed to improving an equity management platform by streamlining user workflows, particularly in document handling, templates, and account configurations. I worked on both front-end and back-end development, ensuring smooth user experiences and proper data management. Our team played a key role in delivering important features and creating efficient demo flows for potential clients, making the platform both powerful and user-friendly.
